

21021

Overhead microphone stand

Product variant

21021-300-55 - black

Data

|                    |                                                   |
|--------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| Boom arm           | one-piece design                                  |
| Boom arm clamping  | T-bar locking screw                               |
| Boom arm length    | 1,065 mm                                          |
| EAN                | 4016842201334                                     |
| Height             | from 1,120 to 2,010 mm                            |
| Height adjustment  | clutch                                            |
| Leg construction   | socket with foldable legs                         |
| Material           | steel                                             |
| Rod combination    | 2-piece folding design                            |
| Size when folded   | 105 x 85 x 1,170 mm                               |
| Special features   | zinc die-cast base;extra high;longer legs |
| Threaded connector | 3/8"                                              |
| Type               | black                                             |
| Weight             | 5.88 kg                                           |

Especially designed for studios and drummers. Taller and longer than most stands. Long legs fold for compact storage and easy transport.